730th anniversary of the granting of municipal rights to
Malbork

The year 2016 marks the 730th anniversary of the granting of municipal rights to our beautiful town. We boast a long and intricate history, which still needs to be further explored and described. Every anniversary in Malbork's history makes us reflect on the fate of people who lived and worked here before us – Marek Charzewski, the Mayor of Malbork

Enchantment guaranteed

*Did you know, that...
The construction of the castle started in 1274.*

The breath-taking beautiful panorama and convenient location have been asignificant asset of the city for centuries. Although the landscape has been dominatem by the enormous castle of the Teutonic Order, Malbork also inspires with numerous Rother attractions, which cannot be overlooked

A city of concerts, open-air performances, theatre plays and sport events. A colourful, rhythmically dancing fountains, street architecture elements and numerous restaurants. All this creates a unique atmosphere of the city that, until recently, has only been associated with its castle. In high season a colourful train irculates the city for the whole day. It connects all the possible places of interest: from a rope course, through dinosaur park, to castle miniature in 1:30 scale. The Street of Crocodiles, an atmospheric market, invites for a journey to the 1920s and 1930s. Castle visit is a must in Malbork. Who wouldn't want to take a photo with Great Masters of the Teutonic Order and see a modern amber exhibition? It's not a miracle that the city is visited by half a million tourists from all over a world a year. Accept our invitation to a city where history of the greatest brick fortress of medieval Europe remains still vivid in the shadow of its gothic walls.

This is the place where history never passes away

The traces of the settlement Datong back to the stone age, the city rights for over seven hundred years and the capital of the Malbork Province for centuries. Not only the castle, but also wonderful architecture and dynamically developing industry reflected the glory of Marienburg – as the Germans used to call the city – even before the war. The old photos also show the statue of the Virgin Mary nestled in the castle's chapel, the symbol of the power of the Teutonic Order.

Malbork – the World's Largest Gothic Castle

Malbork castle was medieval Europe's largest fortress. Picturesquely situated by the Nogat river, the three-castle complex was, for 150 years, the capital of the Teutonic state.

Malbork castle

The castle's origins date back to the second half of the 13th century. Beginning in 1309, Malbork was the seat of the grand masters of the Teutonic Order and the capital of one of medieval Europe's most powerful states. With a surface area of some 21 hectares, Malbork Castle is the largest Gothic castle complex in the world and a masterpiece of late-medieval fortification and residential architecture. In 1997 Malbork Castle was designated a UNESCO World Heritage Site.

Completion of the castle restoration project

For the Castle Museum in Malbork, the year 2016 is special as it marks the completion of one of the greatest challenges in the Museum's history: the project "Conservation and construction works in the Church Complex of St. Mary in the Castle Museum in Malbork". As a result, with a 20-hectare area, the castle is now the world's largest Gothic castle complex, and a masterpiece of defensive and residential late medieval architecture. During more than 50 years of conservation works, great care was taken to restore the church complex in the High Castle to its former glory (i.e. the time before it suffered war damage in 1945). The project was primarily designed to rebuild the Church of St. Mary – the heart of the Teutonic Order. Also reconstructed was the statue of Madonna with the Child, the symbol of Malbork, which can be seen on the eastern wall of the castle. Conservation works also included St. Anne's Chapel, the Main Tower, the Klesza Tower and the Bell-ringer Cabin. The restored area is already accessible to visitors.

Amber exhibition

One of the castle's must-sees is the exhibition of Amber Contexts, looking at the gemstone from a variety of possible angles. Tree resin fossilised millions of years ago, amber reflects the complexity of nature. It can be regarded in a number of contexts, including a natural scientific and artistic one. It can also be looked at from a functional perspective. The Malbork amber collection has earned a reputation as one of the world's best and largest.

New militaria exhibition

Starting June 2016, the castle will be home to a new permanent exhibition: "Oriental militaria – Treasury". The exhibition features Persian and Indo-Persian weapons, many of which used to belong to Professor Lech Konrad Kobyliński's collection. The remaining several dozen oriental militaria, including Afghan, Turkish, and Balkan exhibits, come from the Museum's own collection, which dates back to 1961. The exhibition includes almost all kinds of weapons and armor used in the Persian Empire from 16th to 19th centuries. A must-see for visitors!

*Did you know, that...
In 1286, the city received a town charter (municipal rights).*

Let's meet in the centre

The town center is the hub of numerous concerts, outdoor events, and other gatherings. In the evening, crowds of people gather around the magic fountain that shoots streams of water. Dozens of little restaurants, groovy cinnamon shops, and various pieces of small architecture add to the unique ambience of this place.

The colourful streams of water shot from over a dozen nozzles in the rhythm of music is an extraordinary show, especially after dark. King Kazimierz Jagiellończyk, who keeps a watchful eye on everything that is going on in front of his eyes, is undoubtedly proud of his city, as it is becoming more and more beautiful with the passing years. The monument to the Polish king, whose triumphant entry to Malbork In 1457 began the 'Polish time' which lasted 315 years, is intended to remind everyone of the Polish history of our town.

The Street of Crocodiles

The Street of Crocodiles is a pre-war style market with regional specialties. It offers an original journey to the 1920s and 1930s. It's the only place where you can try local alcoholic beverages, have a nourishing meal or have a ride with a stylish rickshaw, listen to atmospheric music or have a rest by the Old Mangle. At night open-air Summer Cinema invites for a movie.

Malbork coins

Malbork boasts new pieces of small architecture: aluminium coins. Three coins are attached to specially designed stones, while the other two can be found on the sidewalks in Kazimierz Jagiellończyk Square. The coins have been struck to commemorate Malbork's former mint, which operated in five historical periods, and produced Teutonic coins (twice), Polish coins (also twice), and Lithuanian (once).

Dragon Park

Everyone knows what a dragon is. However, fewer people know that these creatures roamed the earth not only in the remote past. Dragons invariably capture the imagination of successive generations, arousing respect and fear. Today they are depicted in various stories that are steeped in magic and fantasy. Allegedly, dragons evolved from enormous carnivorous dinosaurs, such as the Tyrannosaurus Rex. Everyone knows stories about mysterious creatures that have been featured in mass culture since the beginnings of time. We know that they existed, how dangerous they were, and what they looked like. But do we really? It is only in our park that you will see their reconstructed images that will enliven the imagination of ultimate disbelievers.

Dinosaur park

On your way you will see more than 40 mobile dinosaurs, which in the beautiful forest surroundings will guide you through the successive periods in the history of earth. Walking down the 1,350-meter-long educational path you will see what dinosaurs looked like millions of years ago. It is a wonderful collection of information. The realistic images of dinosaurs utter sounds, move their heads, tails, eyelids and even stomachs, imitating breathing. They also wink at the visitors.

1 Church in Boręty

2 Church in Mątowie Wielkie

Regional attractions

1 Church in Boręty

The original church in Boręty was built in gothic style in 14th century. In 1945 it was partially burnt during war activities. The present church was built in 1841/1842, and until 1945 it was a Protestant chapel.

2 Church in Mątowie Wielkie

Gothic brick temple incorporates well in the landscape of this village located in 1321. Its tower, founded on gothic brick structure, is decorated with blends, in its upper part made of wood from 1741, and crowned with a slender shingle-covered cupola.

3 Mennonite Graveyard in Stogi

Graveyard history dates back to 17th century. The necropolis has been divided into two parts. In the first part there was a chapel, the other part was a cemetery. 260 grave frames from artificial stone and 90 graves have been preserved till today. Among them there are 78 steles characteristic for the Mennonite culture.

4 Former Evangelical Church in Nowy Staw

Neo-gothic church constructed in 1803-1804 in place of a city hall burned-down in 1802. In 1863 a slender, hexagonal tower was added to the church giving it a "pencil" nickname.
